Pioneers of "camera mapping" and "stereo modelling"

The "bullet time" effect in the Matrix was created using research from BUF's 1996 video collaboration with Michel Gondry, "Like a Rolling Stone".

Original location in Paris, and now have branches in Pantin, France, and Los Angeles, CA

BUF is among the leading VFX companies in Europe, and is quickly becoming a major player in American feature film projects.

Roughly 200 employees, and over 1000 processors

They are able to manage several-hundred-shot VFX projects and to run full-fledged CGI characters animation projects.

Known for their originality and innovative technology

Since the mid-80's, BUF has been one of the most innovative visual effects companies in the world. They have won numerous awards. This level of achievement is obtained by going through preliminary stages of research and tools development.

A Research and Development team is in charge of designing and upgrading their special tools

This team is composed of engineers and imaging specialists
