Aurea luce et decore roseo,
Lux lucis omne perfudisti sæculum
Decorans cælos inclyto martyrio,
Hac sacra die quæ dat reis veniam.

Ianitor cæli, Doctor orbis pariter,
Iudices sæcli vera mundi lumina,
Per crucem alter ense triumphans,
Vitæ senatum laureati possident.

O felix Roma quæ tantorum principum,
Es purpurata pretioso sanguine,
Non laude tua sed ipsorum meritis,
Excellis omnem mundi pulchritudinem.

Sit Trinitati sempiterna gloria,
Honor, potestas, atque iubilatio
In unitate cui manet imperium
Ex tunc et modo per æterna sæcula. Amen.
—attr. Elpis, wife of Boethius (5th century)

O light of dawn, rosy glow, light from light: you have shone through all ages, lighting the heavens with martyrs' fame, which gain us sinners forgiveness on this sacred day.

*Gate-keeper of heaven and doctor on earth,
judges of the world, true light the world:
one triumphed on a cross, the other by a sword,
and they earned the exalted company of the laurel life.*

*O happy Rome, with such great princes:
you are clad in purple with their precious blood.
Not because of praise for you but because of their merits
you exceed all other beauties of the earth.*

*Eternal glory to the Trinity,
honor, power, jubilation,
whose kingdom remains in unity
then, now, and through eternal ages. Amen.*
