PANEL DISCUSSION

How do the arts expose, dramatize, and indict child labor - and what impact do these actions have beyond the arts?

How does the power of “fictionalized” depictions of child labor in the arts differ from the impact of the “raw facts” upon which lawyers and scholars tend to focus their attention?

A reception in Eck Commons will follow the panel discussion.

HUMAN SOCIETY, AS WE HERE PICTURE IT, DEMANDS THAT PEOPLE BE GUIDED BY JUSTICE,

respect the rights of others and do their duty. It demands, too, that they be animated by such love as will make them feel the needs of others as their own, and induce them to share their goods with others, and to strive in the world to make all people alike heirs to the noblest of intellectual and spiritual values. Nor is this enough; for human society thrives on freedom, namely, on the use of means which are consistent with the dignity of its individual members, who, being endowed with reason, assume responsibility for their own actions.
