

Reynolds' Citation Guide

The Chicago Manual of Style presents two basic documentation systems, the humanities style (notes and bibliography) and the author-date system. Papers prepared for Reynolds should be done according to the humanities style illustrated below. All students must use footnotes to document both direct quotations and specific information gathered from sources. Students in graduate level courses only must prepare a bibliography. Below you will find examples of footnote format (N), short footnote format (sN; to be used for sources for which you have already provided a complete footnote earlier in the paper), and a bibliographic entry (B).
