

Books Read in Study of Catholic Intellectual Tradition

Core of Original Course (with thanks to Matt Ashley) was reading following in tandem:

Mich, Marvin L. Krier. 1998. Catholic Social Teaching and Movements, Twenty

O'Brien, David J. and Thomas A. Shannon (ed.s). 1992. Catholic Social Thought: The Documentary Heritage. Orbis Books.

Himes, Henneth R., Lisa Sowle Cahill, Charles E. Curran, David Hollenbach, and Thomas A. Shannon (ed.s). 2005. Modern Catholic Social Teachings: Commentaries and Interpretation. Georgetown University Press.

After that, on my own:

McBrien, Richard P. 1994. Catholicism: New Study Edition. HarperOne.

Bishop, Morris. 2001. The Middle Ages. Mariner Books.

Colish, Marcia L. 1999. Medieval Foundations of the Western Intellectual Tradition. Yale University Press.

Duffy, Eamon. 2006. Saints and Sinners: A History of the Popes. Yale University Press.

McBrien, Richard P. 2008. The Church: The Evolution of Catholicism. HarperOne.

Collins, Roger. 1999. Early Medieval Europe, 300-1000. Palgrave Macmillan.

Whittow, Mark. 1996. The Making of Byzantium, 600-1025. University of California Press.

Tierney, Brian. 1988. The Crisis of Church and State 1050-1300. University of Toronto Press.
