Irish Studies

Look for these FORTHCOMING Irish Studies titles in our Fall 2013 catalog and on our website:

Scandal Work
James Joyce, the New Journalism, and the Home Rule Newspaper Wars
Margot Gayle Backus
October 2013

Coire Sois, The Cauldron of Knowledge
Tomas Ó Cathasaigh
Edited by Matthieu Boyd
A Companion to Early Irish Saga
October 2013

Race and Immigration in the New Ireland
Edited by Jennifer Vincent Hin, Benet Enright, and Sean Ó Bríona

The University of Notre Dame Press is pleased to offer our award-winning Irish Studies books in this brochure. Sale prices are valid until May 31, 2013. Limited stock, so order early.

New and Recent Titles from The University of Notre Dame Press

Select titles on sale

Look for these FORTHCOMING Irish Studies titles in our Fall 2013 catalog and on our website:

Scandal Work
James Joyce, the New Journalism, and the Home Rule Newspaper Wars
Margot Gayle Backus
October 2013

Coire Sois, The Cauldron of Knowledge
Tomas Ó Cathasaigh
Edited by Matthieu Boyd
A Companion to Early Irish Saga
October 2013

Race and Immigration in the New Ireland
Edited by Jennifer Vincent Hin, Benet Enright, and Sean Ó Bríona
Awake in America
On Irish American Poetry
Daniel Tobin

“Tobin’s careful meditation on Irish, Irish American, and American poetry is persuasive and pertinent precisely because the study has roots in learned enquiry and personal experience; as familiar with Wexford and Dublin as he is with Brooklyn and Boston, the author scans Irish and American poetry with precision and flair. This thought-provoking fusion of exegesis and reverie offers a particularly useful and enlivening frame of reference which Tobin uses to examine specifically Irish American senses of liberating doubleness, transatlanticism, roots/routes, and historical memory. . . . It is not only destined to become the pre-eminent study of Irish American poetry, but is set to make a vital contribution to Irish Studies and Irish American Studies as well.” —Modern Language Review

“Daniel Tobin’s earlier book from the University of Notre Dame Press, the magisterial anthology The Book of Irish-American Poetry from the Eighteenth Century to the Present (2007), set out what amounts to a canon for a previously unacknowledged literature. Awake in America builds on that achievement. . . . Any future writing on the topic will have to reckon with Tobin’s book.” —Irish Literary Supplement

The Book of Irish American Poetry
From the Eighteenth Century to the Present
Edited by Daniel Tobin

“Tobin’s 900-plus-page anthology is a gem. . . . It is an effusive text of Irish American poetry, rather than of Irish American poets, and because of this it is inclusive in a way that one might not expect. . . . This is an anthology at once rigorously defined and researched and yet also open to every type of poet and poem.” —The Virginia Quarterly Review

Finding Ireland
A Poet’s Explorations of Irish Literature and Culture
Richard Tillinghast

Winner of the Gold for the 2008 Book of the Year Award for Travel Essays, ForeWord Magazine

“What distinguishes this book is Tillinghast’s blend of tourist information and insightful criticism. Whether planning a trip or just fascinated by Ireland’s rich history and literary contributions, readers will enjoy this book.” —Library Journal

Writing the Irish West
Ecologies and Traditions
Eamonn Wall

“For readers and scholars with interests in writing about the American West, his extended reflections on these parallels prove illuminating and provocative, because in both traditions the ‘Westerness’ he opens up to further exploration is at once intensely regional, national, and, in some respects, even global. . . . By initiating a cross-cultural dialogue about the meanings of the ‘West,’ Writing the Irish West opens up intriguing new possibilities for Irish studies and American studies.” —Western American Literature

“Richard Tillinghast’s Finding Ireland is a gathering of memoirs, travelogues, reviews, ‘letters from Ireland,’ and familiar essays, in which the American poet explores Irish culture mainly through the works of modern Irish writers. . . . In tones ranging from the professorial to the celebrative to the elegiac, he writes with authority on subjects as diverse as the poetry of Derek Mahon, the fiction of William Trevor, the plays of Brian Friel, the felicities of Irish traditional music, and the surviving pleasures of rural Irish life, where ‘there is still a place by the fire and a cup of tea for the visitor in the farmhouse kitchen.’” —Sewanee Review

“Wall’s text is useful for giving credit to several excellent Irish writers and for questioning many well-worn images of the Irish landscape. Overall, this text prepares the way for future ecocritical approaches to Irish literature and is a welcome addition to the field of Irish studies.” —Interdisciplinary Studies in Literature and Environment
The Yeats Brothers and Modernism’s Love of Motion
Calvin Bedient

“Bedient takes a unique approach to two members of one of the most fascinating and artistically accomplished families of the 20th century—the Yeats brothers, William Butler and Jack Butler. Although one can find scores of books on W. B. Yeats and a handful about Jack B. Yeats, no one before Bedient has sought to analyze simultaneously the achievements of each . . . This book makes a major contribution to contemporary Irish scholarship.” —Choice

“. . . in the U.S. Jack Yeats has not yet attained anything like the degree of canonisation he reached in Ireland at least a generation ago, if not two generations. . . . Bedient, however, has an almost messianic urge to place him firmly at the heart of modernism, along with his poet-brother, and he is surely right in this . . . the sheer verve and unorthodoxy this book displays in tackling its highly dualistic subject deserve full respect.” —The Irish Times

424 pages 2009
5. ISBN 978-0-268-02206-8 • $48.00 cl/Sale $28.00

Public Works
Infrastructure, Irish Modernism, and the Postcolonial
Michael Rubenstein

Winner, 2010 Rhodes Prize for Best Book on Irish Literature, American Conference for Irish Studies
Winner of The Modernist Studies Association Book Prize for 2011

“Michael Rubenstein’s wonderfully clear, engaging, smart, and witty new book . . . deals primarily with the history, politics, and legacy of the Irish Free State by looking at large-scale municipal projects. . . . There is much to admire in this book: unique readings of canonical texts; fresh connections between painting, literature, engineering, politics, and economics; and . . . a keen sense of the key questions of our contemporary moment: namely, the usefulness and value of government.” —James Joyce Literary Supplement

“. . . this brilliant book offers riches in abundance not only for scholars in Irish studies but for anyone concerned with literature and culture as they function in the world today. It is theoretically rigorous, intellectually wide-ranging, and never less than a pleasure to read.” —Contemporary Literature

272 pages 2010
6. ISBN 978-0-268-04030-7 • $32.00 pa/Sale $22.00

Poetry and Peace
Michael Longley, Seamus Heaney, and Northern Ireland
Richard Rankin Russell

Winner, 2011 South Central Modern Language Association Book Award
Winner, 2011 South Atlantic Modern Language Association Book Award

“Russell’s book is valuable in giving full attention to the work of Michael Longley, a poet of great range and variety who has been unjustly overlooked in some quarters. The book is additionally valuable in the way it takes poetry out of the ontologically abstract place it is assigned to by most literary criticism.” —The New Criterion

“Russell does show that Longley and Heaney have contributed appreciably to the peace process in Northern Ireland through their poetry, which remaining utterly faithful to its own autonomy, creates a discourse that escaped the violence and vengeance that have marked Northern Ireland since the Troubles. It does so by creating an imaginative space for the other and by emphasizing the shared cultural patrimony of the province. Russell luminously illustrates how Longley’s and Heaney’s emphasis on the legacy shared by Protestants and Catholics opens a way past the cycle of carnage and settling of scores; this emphasis affirms a community that includes all those once excluded by sectarian fury and mania.” —Peace Review: A Journal of Social Justice

464 pages 2010
7. ISBN 978-0-268-04031-4 • $45.00 pa/Sale $31.00

Deep-Rooted Things
Empire and Nation in the Poetry and Drama of William Butler Yeats
Rob Doggett

“Doggett shows Yeats’ movement from imagined exile to poems of engagement to poems informed by his visionary system. This cycle provides a space where the Irish nation can be contemplated and imagined anew.” —Choice

200 pages 2006
8. ISBN 978-0-268-02583-0 • $25.00 pa/Sale $14.00

Too Smart to Be Sentimental
Contemporary Irish American Women Writers
Edited by Sally Barr Ebest and Kathleen McNerney
Foreword by Caledonia Kearns

“This critical study of contemporary Irish American women writers, the first of its kind, offers a literary history of Irish America in the 20th century from a feminist perspective.” —Library Journal

280 pages 2008
9. ISBN 978-0-268-02773-5 • $29.00 pa/Sale $15.00

Ireland’s Others
Ethnicity and Gender in Irish Literature and Popular Culture
Elizabeth Butler Cullingford

320 pages 2001
10. ISBN 978-0-268-03167-1 • $30.00 pa/Sale $15.00
Race and Immigration in the New Ireland
Edited by Julieann Veronica Ulin, Heather Edwards, and Sean O’Brien

“Race and Immigration in the New Ireland presents a wide range of insights on the ethical challenges and possibilities of the post–Celtic Tiger Ireland. Together, the essays here offer an open and constructive debate within the social frame of Irish studies. This book emphasizes the critical importance of the moral imagination in shaping the evolution of state policy in the ongoing contexts of migration, diaspora, and global markets that have marked recent Irish history.” —Fionnghuala Sweeney, University of Liverpool

248 pages 2013
11. ISBN 978-0-268-02777-3 • $35.00 pa

Human Encumbrances
Political Violence and the Great Irish Famine
David P. Nally

“Drawing on copious primary sources to create a searing portrayal of Irish poverty, Nally’s work is a thorough account of the famine in a long-term perspective that places it in a contemporary theoretical and postcolonial framework. One great strength of this book is that Nally embeds the famine in comparative studies, drawing on the work of Sen and others, who demonstrate that famines are the result of both crop failures and the inability of the poor to pay for food.” —Journal of Interdisciplinary History

“Human Encumbrances is an intellectually significant and remarkably accessible contribution to the history of the Irish famine, its greatest draw Nally’s fresh recognition of contemporary humanitarian responses to the Famine.” —The Journal of Imperial and Commonwealth History

368 pages 2011
12. ISBN 978-0-268-03608-9 • $38.00 pa/Sale $23.00

The Eucharist in Pre-Norman Ireland
Neil Xavier O’Donoghue

“In this work . . . O’Donoghue has rendered an immense service to students of early Irish church history and its liturgy. . . . This is an excellent work, and sure to become a classic in the field of Irish liturgy and as a background to such works as the Stowe Tract on the Mass.” —Ecclesiastical History

“In preparing this study O’Donoghue has surveyed a vast array of primary and secondary sources—not only in the area of early Irish studies, but also in those of church history and liturgiology in general. For this reason alone the book will be welcomed by readers in many disciplines.” —American Historical Review

384 pages 2011
13. ISBN 978-0-268-03732-1 • $48.00 pa/Sale $32.00

Ireland’s Magdalen Laundries and the Nation’s Architecture of Containment
James M. Smith

Winner of the 2007 Donald Murphy Prize for a Distinguished First Book from the American Conference for Irish Studies

“[Smith] provides readers with the first attempt at a comprehensive history of the institutions in Ireland. His scholarship aims to continue the work of others in chipping away at the national amnesia regarding the place of the Magdalens, to bring them to the centre of public discourse from the concealment of their margins. The study reaches beyond the ivory tower into the larger society, becoming not just useful for other researchers but also a rare example of academic activism at its best.” —Irish Studies Review

312 pages 2007
14. ISBN 978-0-268-04127-4 • $28.00 pa/Sale $21.00

Map-making, Landscapes and Memory
A Geography of Colonial and Early Modern Ireland, c. 1530–1750
William J. Smyth

Awarded the Irish Historical Research Prize by the National University of Ireland
Co-winner of the 2006 James S. Donnelly, Sr., Prize for Books on History and Social Sciences, The American Conferences for Irish Studies

“Rooted in a mastery of a remarkable array of sources, Smyth’s Map-making, Landscapes and Memory is a worthy addition to this lively scholarly tradition. This new book significantly improves our understanding of early modern Ireland. This is a strong and learned book, full of insights for scholars interested in Irish history.” —Journal of Interdisciplinary History

640 pages 2006
15. ISBN 978-0-268-01781-1 • $80.00 cl/Sale $40.00
Ireland Now
Tales of Change from the Global Island
William Flanagan
William Flanagan uses personal, first-hand stories from a wide range of Irish citizens, including the elderly, farmers, people in small towns and rural areas, and new immigrants, to illustrate how various segments of the population are coping with a shifting social landscape.
288 pages 2007

Private Histories
The Writing of Irish Americans, 1900–1935
Ron Ebest
“Ebest’s extraordinarily broad review of Irish American writing and scholarship is accompanied by insightful analysis and nuanced observations.” —Journal of American Ethnic History
336 pages 2005
17. ISBN 978-0-268-02772-8 • $25.00 pa/Sale $12.00

Paul Cullen, John Henry Newman, and the Catholic University of Ireland, 1845–1865
Colin Barr
“. . . a marvelous and sometimes surprising picture of Newman’s work in the context of Irish higher education.” —History of Education Quarterly
304 pages 2003
18. ISBN 978-0-268-03878-6 • $30.00 pa/Sale $12.00

Foreign Affections
Essays on Edmund Burke
Seamus Deane
“Seamus Deane . . . here gathers and updates nine of his previously published essays on the great British philosopher.” —Catholic Library World
216 pages 2005
19. ISBN 978-0-268-02570-0 • $30.00 pa/Sale $12.00

Ed Delahanty in the Emerald Age of Baseball
Jerrold Casway
400 pages 2004
20. ISBN 978-0-268-02291-4 • $20.00 pa/Sale $8.00

The Outer Edge of Ulster
A Memoir of Social Life in Nineteenth-Century Donegal
Hugh Dorian
Edited by Breandán Mac Suibhne and David Dickson
“This is a riveting view of traumatic social change in Ireland, recorded with pithy eloquence by a combative local schoolteacher, enhanced by a masterly introduction and notes.” —Times Literary Supplement
352 pages 2001

The Celts
A History from Earliest Times to the Present
Bernhard Maier
Translated by Kevin Windle
“[T]he book as a whole is an extraordinary achievement, remarkable for the range of historical, literary, and linguistic material it covers with clarity and expertise.” —History: Reviews of New Books
320 pages 2003
22. ISBN 978-0-268-02361-4 • $23.00 pa/Sale $10.00

Ireland and Postcolonial Theory
Edited by Clare Carroll and Patricia King
“. . . fine essays on the intersection of Ireland and postcolonial theory.” —New Hibernia Review
280 pages 2003
23. ISBN 978-0-268-02286-0 • $47.50 cl/Sale $15.00
24. ISBN 978-0-268-02287-7 • $25.00 pa/Sale $10.00

Notre Dame’s Happy Returns
Dublin, the Experience, the Game
Brian Ó Conchubhair and Susan Mullen Guibert
Photography by Matt Cashore
“. . . much more than a look back at Notre Dame’s 50-10 season opening victory against the Midshipmen across the Atlantic Ocean. Rather, it is a photographic archive of the city of Dublin and the fanfare leading up to the Emerald Isle Classic, as seen through the lens of Matt Cashore with a look at the culture and history of Dublin as told by . . . Brian Ó Conchubhair and . . . Susan Mullen Guibert. . . . Serving as a photographic tour book of sorts, the reader will have an opportunity to relive or visually experience the week leading up to the football game. . . . Lasty, there are some stunning and vivid action shots from the game.”
—examiner.com
184 pages 2012
26. ISBN 978-0-268-02308-9 • $38.00 cl
The University of Notre Dame Press is pleased to offer our award-winning, critically acclaimed Irish Studies books in this brochure. You can order the books at the discounted price three different ways:

1) Fill out the order form and mail it to the address below or fax it to (800) 621-8476.
2) Visit our website and use Sale Code “NDIS13” to receive the special discount. In the shopping cart, enter the code, click “update,” and the discount price will appear. Free shipping on all domestic orders placed on website.
3) Call (800) 621-2736 (Mention sale code “NDIS13” for sale prices to apply.)

Discount valid through May 31, 2013. Limited stock, so order early.

|-----|----------------------------|-------------------|-----|----------------------------|-------------------|

*S & H: Add $5.00 for one book and $1 for each additional

*SHIPPING AND HANDLING
IN residents add 7% sales tax
IL residents add 9.25% sales tax

TOTAL

Check or Money Order enclosed (In U.S. currency only)
Charge to my: MasterCard_____ VISA_____ American Express_____ Discover_____
Account #:________________________ Expiration Date:____________________
Phone:____________________________ Signature:________________________
SHIP ORDER TO:
Name:____________________________ Address:________________________
City:________________________ State:________________ Zip:________________

Mail prepaid order to:
UNIVERSITY OF NOTRE DAME PRESS
Chicago Distribution Center, 11030 South Langley Avenue, Chicago, IL 60628
Tel: (800) 621-2736 or (773) 702-7000 • Fax: (800) 621-8476 or (773) 702-7212

Order online at: undpress.nd.edu (Use sale code “NDIS13” in the shopping cart.)
Free shipping on all domestic orders placed on website.

E-books from the University of Notre Dame Press
Select titles from the University of Notre Dame Press are available in electronic format from our website undpress.nd.edu. You can conveniently and quickly download e-books directly to your computer or handheld device and read them using Adobe Digital Editions software, a free download from Adobe available for PC and Mac, as well as for e-book devices such as the Barnes & Noble Nook, the Kobo eReader, the Sony E-reader, and other devices.