

CONTENTS

Preface	vii
List of Illustrations	xv
Chapter 1 Theorizing Crossover: Principles and Case Studies	1
A Hermeneutics of Both/And	7
Felix Culpa and the Principle of Double Judgment	13
Pagan Matiere , Christian Sen , and Secular Conjointure	25
Hagiographic Romance: “Everything That Rises Must Converge”	37
Chapter 2 Double Coding: Knights of Arthur, Knights of Christ	55
Chrétien’s Charrette : Double Coding, Double Judgment	56
Perlesvaus : The Grail and Christendom’s “Old Laws”	70
Lancelot and the Grail: Chrétien’s Ambiguous Legacy	83
Le Morte Darthur : Double Coding, Double Ending	92

Chapter 3	Conversion: The Literary Traditions of Marguerite Porete	111
	The Puys of Picardy and the Valenciennes Prize Poems	113
	Beguine Lyrics, Recycled Songs, and the Mirror	122
	Roses, Crimson and White	144
	The Mirror and the Rose	153
	From 1277 to 1312, or the Perils of Crossover	161
Chapter 4	Parody: From Profane Communion to Blasphemous Passion	167
	Parodia Sacra and the Principle of the Two-Edged Sword	168
	Obscene Communion: Le lai d'Ignaure	174
	Mocking Mass Murder: The Passion of the Jews of Prague	181
	A Lawsuit in Heaven: The Dispute between God and His Mother	201
Chapter 5	Convergence: René of Anjou and the Heart's Two Quests	223
	Mortifying Vain Pleasure: The King as Vernacular Theologian	226
	The Grail, the Rose, and the Love-Smitten Heart	237
	Converging Quests	249
	Conclusion: A Backward and a Forward Glance	257
	Appendix 1. The Passion of the Jews of Prague according to John the Peasant (1389)	264
	Appendix 2. La Desputoison de Dieu et de sa mère / The Dispute between God and His Mother	272
	Notes	288
	Works Cited	348
	Index	382