Participatory Democracy in Brazil
RECENT TITLES FROM THE HELEN KELLOGG INSTITUTE FOR INTERNATIONAL STUDIES

Scott Mainwaring, series editor

The University of Notre Dame Press gratefully thanks Helen Kellogg Institute for International Studies for its support in the publication of titles in this series.

Gabriela Ippolito-O’Donnell
The Right to the City: Popular Contention in Contemporary Buenos Aires (2012)

Susan Fitzpatrick-Behrens

Barry S. Levitt

Sérgio Buarque de Holanda
Roots of Brazil (2012)

José Murilo de Carvalho
The Formation of Souls: Imagery of the Republic in Brazil (2012)

Douglas Chalmers and Scott Mainwaring, eds.
Problems Confronting Contemporary Democracies: Essays in Honor of Alfred Stepan (2012)

Peter K. Spink, Peter M. Ward, and Robert H. Wilson, eds.
Metropolitan Governance in the Federalist Americas: Strategies for Equitable and Integrated Development (2012)

Natasha Borges Sugiyama
Diffusion of Good Government: Social Sector Reforms in Brazil (2012)

Ignacio Walker
Democracy in Latin America: Between Hope and Despair (2013)

Laura Gómez-Mera

Rosario Queirolo

Erik Ching

Brian Wampler

For a complete list of titles from the Helen Kellogg Institute for International Studies, see http://www.undpress.nd.edu

© 2015 UNIVERSITY OF NOTRE DAME
CONTENTS

List of Abbreviations vii
Glossary of Foreign Terms ix
Acknowledgments xi

Introduction 1

CHAPTER ONE
The Brazilian (Un)Representative System 33

CHAPTER TWO
Participatory Movements under Authoritarian Government 57

CHAPTER THREE
MDB Autênticos in Lages 91

CHAPTER FOUR
CEBs in Boa Esperança 117

CHAPTER FIVE
The PT in Diadema 149

CHAPTER SIX
The Tempering of Participatory Ideals and Practices 175

CHAPTER SEVEN
The Making of Participatory Democracy in Brazil 215

Notes 229
Works Cited 235
Index 257

© 2015 UNIVERSITY OF NOTRE DAME
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Abbreviation</th>
<th>Description</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>ANC</td>
<td>National Constituent Assembly (Assembléia Nacional Constituinte)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ARENA</td>
<td>National Renewal Alliance (Aliança Nacional Renovadora)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>CEB</td>
<td>ecclesial base community (comunidade eclesiáil de base)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>CEBRAP</td>
<td>Brazilian Centre of Analysis and Planning (Centro Brasileiro de Análise e Planejamento)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>CELAM</td>
<td>Latin American Episcopal Council (Consejo Episcopal Latino-americano)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>CDP</td>
<td>popular democratic committee (comité democrático popular)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>CLT</td>
<td>Consolidate Labor Laws (Consolidação das Leis do Trabalho)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>CNBBB</td>
<td>National Conference of Brazilian Bishops (Conferência Nacional dos Bispos do Brasil)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>IEPES</td>
<td>Institute for Political, Economic and Social Studies (Instituto de Estudos Políticos, Econômicos e Sociais)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>IDS</td>
<td>Institute for Development Studies</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>ISI</td>
<td>Import Substitution Industrialization</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>MDB</td>
<td>Brazilian Democratic Movement (Movimento Democrático Brasileiro)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>MST</td>
<td>Landless Workers’ Movement (Movimento dos Trabalhadores Sem Terra)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>PB</td>
<td>participatory budgeting (orçamento participativo)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>PCB</td>
<td>Brazilian Communist Party (Partido Comunista Brasileiro)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>PCdoB</td>
<td>Communist Party of Brazil (Partido Comunista do Brasil)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>PMDB</td>
<td>Brazilian Democratic Movement Party (Partido do Movimento Democrático Brasileiro)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>PRC</td>
<td>Santa Catarina Republican Party (Partido Republicano Catarinense)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Abbreviation</td>
<td>Full Name</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>--------------</td>
<td>-----------</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>PRO</td>
<td>Revolutionary Labor Party (Partido Revolucionário Operário)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>PRP</td>
<td>Popular Representation Party (Partido de Representação Popular)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>PSD</td>
<td>Social Democratic Party (Partido Social Democrata)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>PSDB</td>
<td>Brazilian Social Democratic Party (Partido da Social Democracia Brasileira)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>PSP</td>
<td>Progressive Social Party (Partido Social Progressista)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>PT</td>
<td>Workers’ Party (Partido dos Trabalhadores)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>PTB</td>
<td>Brazilian Labor Party (Partido Trabalhista Brasileiro)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>SAB</td>
<td>association of the friends of the neighborhood (sociedade de amigos do bairro)</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>UDN</td>
<td>National Democratic Union ( União Democrática Nacional)</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
autêntico (pl. autênticos): the more radical members of the Brazilian Democratic Movement bandeirante (pl. bandeirantes): colonial scout cabo eleitoral (pl. cabos eleitorais): political canvassers caboclo (pl. caboclos): Brazilians of mixed European and indigenous backgrounds celebração (pl. celebrações): the socializing part of religious gatherings conscientização: consciousness raising coronel (pl. coronéis): local strongmen diretório and sub-diretório (pl. diretórios): party city chapters and party neighborhood chapters mutirão (pl. mutirões): self-construction projects, most often the building of popular houses paulista (pl. paulistas): of, from, or pertaining to the state of São Paulo politicagem: politicking pelego (pl. pelegos): co-opted union leader reinvidicação (pl. reinvidicações): a demand to public officials grounded on moral or legal rights tenentismo: political movement of rebelling lieutenants in the first half of the twentieth century vendeiro (pl. vendeiros): owner of the local supply store and middleman of coffee trade
ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

This book is based on a doctoral thesis completed at the Balsillie School of International Affairs, University of Waterloo, under the supervision of Frederick Bird and Kathryn Hochstetler. Fred provided unremitting support for this project since I began to conceptualize it. Notably, he supported my decision to pursue a qualitative historical approach in a time when political science graduate students are pressured to adopt quantitative methods. Kathy shared her comprehensive and in-depth knowledge of Brazil, and continually pushed me to hone my arguments; she provided decisive encouragement in the book proposal and manuscript revision phases, which included the extensive rewriting of the original text.

William Nylen, Brian Wampler, and Philip Oxhorn provided invaluable advice on how to turn a promising doctoral thesis into a publishable book. They epitomized the best of academia by offering thoughtful, trenchant, and constructive criticism to a younger scholar while showing respect and admiration for my work. The content of their comments were instrumental in improving the quality of this book, and the manner in which they were delivered made the review process an extremely rewarding experience. The latter can also be said about the editors of the University of Notre Dame Press, with whom it has been a great pleasure to work.

Others at the Balsillie School have my most sincere gratitude. I had the privilege to have Rhoda Howard-Hassmann on my doctoral supervisory committee. She offered valuable guidance on how to make this research project accessible and relevant to non-Brazilianists. Eric Helleiner has been for many years a mentor and a model. He has taught me that academic research is not a zero-sum game. Andrew Thompson’s assistance was also instrumental in the completion of my thesis. And though spread across the globe, my cohort was always supportive. During my field research, I was hosted by the Núcleo de Pesquisas de Políticas Públicas da Universidade de São Paulo (NUPPs), where I partook in many stimulating academic events. I would like to thank José Álvaro Moisés for providing me with this opportunity and offering valuable comments on my research project. Charmain Levy and Paulo J. Krischke also took the time to read drafts of parts of this project and provided helpful comments. I am greatly indebted to my interviewees in Lages, Boa Esperança, and Diadema, including former mayors Dirceu Carneiro, Amaro Covre, and Gilson Menezes. The Centro de Documentação e Pesquisa Vergueiro, headed by Luiza Peixoto, had a vital role in my field research. I also found valuable documents in the Centro de Memória de Diadema, the archive of the Instituto Brasileiro de Administração Municipal, and the personal archive of historian-activist Valdo Ruviaro.

Back in Canada, the John P. Robarts Library provided me with working space next to the stacks on Brazilian history, which made my thesis writing time much more productive. I revised the manuscript while teaching as a sessional lecturer at the Département de science politique de l’Université du Québec à Montréal, where I had rich exchanges about participatory democracy and Brazilian politics with Caroline Patsias and Julián Durazo-Herrmann. My doctoral research was funded by the Balsillie School of International Affairs’ Balsillie Fellowship, and the Social Science and Humanities Research Council of Canada’s Vanier Graduate Scholarship. I would like to thank these institutions for the financial support that made this project possible.

My dearest friends Jayna Mitchell, Bruno Dobrusin, and Chris Allen have pondered with me for hours on end on the why and how of this endeavor. My partner Y amie came into my life in what is considered the most dreadful period of a doctoral program: the comprehensive exams. She made my life more joyful then, and thereafter, and shared me with this thesis/manuscript/book for five years—merci mon amour.