Reformations

MEDIEVAL AND EARLY MODERN

Series Editors:
David Aers, Sarah Beckwith, and James Simpson

RECENT TITLES IN THE SERIES

Against All England: Regional Identity and Cheshire Writing, 1195–1656 (2009)
Robert W. Barrett, Jr.

The Maudlin Impression: English Literary Images of Mary Magdalene, 1550–1700 (2009)
Patricia Badir

Nancy Bradley Warren

The Island Garden: England’s Language of Nation from Gildas to Marvell (2012)
Lynn Staley

Miserere Mei: The Penitential Psalms in Late Medieval and Early Modern England (2012)
Claire Costley King’oo

The English Martyr from Reformation to Revolution (2012)
Alice Dailey

Transforming Work: Early Modern Pastoral and Late Medieval Poetry (2013)
Katherine C. Little

Thomas Betteridge

Sebastian Sobeccki

Mysticism and Reform, 1400–1750 (2015)
Sara S. Poor and Nigel Smith, eds.

© 2015 UNIVERSITY OF NOTRE DAME
THE CIVIC CYCLES

Artisan Drama and Identity in Premodern England

Nicole R. Rice & Margaret Aziza Pappano

University of Notre Dame Press
Notre Dame, Indiana

© 2015 UNIVERSITY OF NOTRE DAME
To Howard, Toby, and Helena
N. R. R.

To Adnan and Hamza
M. A. P.
Contents

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Section</th>
<th>Page</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>List of Figures</td>
<td>ix</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Acknowledgments</td>
<td>xi</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Introduction: Craft Communities and Artisan Drama</td>
<td>1</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>New Beginnings: Processions, Plays, and Civic Politics in York and Chester</td>
<td>41</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>“Whom Seek Ye, Sirs?”: Searching and Salvation in York’s Herod and the Magi</td>
<td>83</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fair Trade: Masters, Servants, and Local Identity in the York Cycle</td>
<td>117</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Spinsters, Laborers, and Alewives: The Regulation of Women’s Work in Chester</td>
<td>161</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Last Judgment in York and Chester: Artisans, Merchants, and the Performance of Civic Charity</td>
<td>209</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Epilogue</td>
<td>255</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>List of Abbreviations</td>
<td>265</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Notes</td>
<td>266</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Bibliography</td>
<td>323</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Index</td>
<td>343</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

© 2015 UNIVERSITY OF NOTRE DAME
Figures

Figures lacking page numbers are in the gallery following p. 164.

Figure i.1. First folio of Chester Goldsmiths’ Company Book (CALS ZG 12/1). Reproduced with permission of the Chester Goldsmiths’ Company. 29

Figure 1.1. York Corpus Christi Play: Pageant Route of 1486. © Meg Twycross. Reproduced with her permission. 45

Figure 1.2. Map of premodern Chester. © Robert W. Barrett, Jr. Reproduced with his permission. 47

Figure 1.3. God’s speech from the York Tanners’ Play. © The British Library Board, Additional MS 35290, fol. 6v. Reproduced with permission.

Figure 3.1. Last Supper panel from York Minster. © Dean and Chapter of York. Reproduced by kind permission.

Figure 3.2. Addition to the York Glovers’ play by John Clerke. © The British Library Board, Additional MS 35290, fol. 23v. Reproduced with permission.

Figure 4.1. Adam and Eve, Cain and Abel. © The British Library Board, Royal MS 2 B VII, fol. 4v. Reproduced with permission.
Figure 4.2. Woman beating man with distaff. Fourteenth-century misericord, Abbey of St. Werburgh’s (Chester Cathedral). Photograph by Valerie Hamill. Reproduced by permission of the Chapter of Chester Cathedral. 173

Figure 4.3. Noah and ark from Mathew Baker’s “Fragments of Ancient English Shipwrightry.” Reproduced by permission of the Pepys Library, Magdalene College, Cambridge.

Figure 5.1. Undercroft of York Merchant Adventurers’ Hall, chapel. Author’s photograph. 215

Figure 5.2. Diagram of York Mercers’ pageant wagon with key. © Leeds Studies in English. Reproduced by kind permission. 218

Figure 5.3. Doomsday painting from Holy Trinity Church, Coventry. Reproduced by permission of Holy Trinity Church PCC, www.holytrinitycoventry.org.uk.

Figure 5.4. Doomsday painting from St. Thomas’s Church, Salisbury. Photograph by Emm Photography. Reproduced with permission.

Figure 5.5. Doomsday painting from St. Thomas’s Church, Salisbury, detail of damned souls. Photograph by Emm Photography. Reproduced with permission.

Figure 6.1. Gamull family tomb sculpture, depicting Francis Gamull, from St. Mary-on-the-Hill, Chester. Author’s photograph.
Acknowledgments

This study has evolved with the help of many generous institutions and colleagues. In 2011–12, we were privileged to receive an ACLS Collaborative Research Fellowship from the American Council of Learned Societies. The fellowship enabled us to devote sustained time to researching and writing this book. We are grateful to St. John’s University and Queen’s University for their ongoing support of our research. We thank the New York Public Library for facilitating research with the MaRLI program and the Wertheim Study.

For assistance and patience during our visits, we would like to thank the archivists at the Cheshire Archives and Local Studies office and the York Civic Archive (especially Joy Cann), Jill Redford and Louise Wheatley at the York Merchant Adventurers’ Hall, and the staff of the British Library. We are grateful to Hilary McNain, the Chester Cordwainers’ steward, for granting us access to the company’s records. We thank Lynn Kinsey and the Friends of St. Thomas’s Church, Salisbury (friends@stthomassalisbury.co.uk), as well as Emm Photography, for kind assistance with images.

We have learned much from colleagues as we shared work in progress at seminars and conferences. These conversations introduced important new concepts and pushed us to refine our arguments, both large and small. We thank the participants in the Folger Library seminar on artisan epistemology, led by Pamela Smith, and members of the Medieval Club of New York, especially Glenn Burger and Derrick Higginbotham. We are grateful to Martha Rust and the New York University Medieval and Renaissance Center Distinguished Speaker series, where we received feedback from Robert W. Hanning, Marlene Villalobos Hennessy, and Maryanne Kowaleski. We thank the members of the Queen’s University Medieval Seminar, especially Adnan Husain, Ruth Wehlau, Richard Greenfield, Matthew Scribner, and Agatha Hansen, and the English Department research forum, especially Elizabeth Hanson, Marta Straznicky, and Asha Varadharajan. At various conferences, we received support and valuable suggestions from Mary Agnes Edsall, Dante Pappano, Jill Stevenson, and Pamela King.

For reading our work and offering insightful commentary at the start of the project, we are indebted to Theresa Coletti and David Aers. Brian Walsh offered an incisive reading near the end. Thanks are due to the readers for University of Notre Dame Press, who offered encouraging, concrete advice for revision. We are grateful for the support of the ReFormations editorial board and to Stephen Little for supervising the editorial process.

We thank Matthew Roby for his acumen and diligence in helping to prepare the manuscript. We gratefully acknowledge Elisabeth Magnus for her careful copyediting.

As befits its topic, this book emerged through a collaborative process, characterized particularly by shared planning and working through of ideas and joint revisions. We wrote the Introduction together. Chapters or sections were written individually by Rice (the Chester and Marian sections of chapter 1 and the entirety of chapters 2 and 5) or Pappano (the York section of chapter 1 and the entirety of chapters 3 and 4 and the epilogue) and were then revised in consultation.

Finally, we thank our families for everything.