Evagrius and His Legacy
With special thanks to the Dumbarton Oaks Research Library and Collection and the Trustees for Harvard University, Washington, DC.
EVA GRIUS

and HIS

LEGACY

Edited by

JOEL KALVESMAKI and ROBIN DARLING YOUNG

University of Notre Dame Press

Notre Dame, Indiana

© 2016 UNIVERSITY OF NOTRE DAME
CONTENTS

Abbreviations vii

Acknowledgments ix

Introduction: The Ornament and Intellect of the Desert 1
ROBIN DARLING YOUNG & JOEL KALVESMAKI

1 Evagrius and Cappadocian Orthodoxy 14
BRIAN E. DALEY, SJ

2 Thoughts that Cut: Cutting, Imprinting, and Lingering in Evagrius of Pontus 49
KEVIN CORRIGAN

3 Evagrius Ponticus, Exegete of the Soul 73
LUKE DYSINGER, OSB

4 Evagrius and Authority 96
BLOSSOM STEFANIW

5 Evagrius Ponticus and Maximus the Confessor: The Building of the Self in Praxis and Contemplation 128
JULIA KONSTANTINOVSKY

6 The Role of Letters in the Works of Evagrius 154
ROBIN DARLING YOUNG

© 2016 UNIVERSITY OF NOTRE DAME
Contents

7 Philoxenos of Mabbug and the Simplicity of Evagrian Gnosis: Competing Uses of Evagrius in the Early Sixth Century
   DAVID A. MICHELSON
   175

8 Evagrius beyond Byzantium: The Latin and Syriac Receptions
   COLUMBA STEWART, OSB
   206

9 Evagrius: East of the Euphrates
   ANTHONY J. WATSON
   236

10 Evagrius in the Byzantine Genre of Chapters
    JOEL KALVESMAKI
    257

11 Origenism and Anti-Origenism in the Late Sixth and Seventh Centuries
    DIRK KRAUSMÜLLER
    288

12 The Evagrian Heritage in Late Byzantine Monasticism
    GREGORY COLLINS, OSB
    317

Bibliography

Select Works of Evagrius
Select Editions and Translations of Ancient and Medieval Works
Other Primary and Secondary Studies

Contributors
Index

© 2016 UNIVERSITY OF NOTRE DAME
ABBREVIATIONS

BHL  Bibliotheca hagiographica latina antiquitae et mediae aetatis, SubsHag 6 (Brussels, 1898–1911; new suppl. 1986)
BL  British Library
CCSG  Corpus christianorum, Series graeca
CCSL  Corpus christianorum, Series latina
CD  Corpus Dionysiacum
CFMM  Church of the Forty Martyrs (manuscript collection in Mardin, Turkey)
CH  Church History
CPL  Clavis patrum latinorum, 3rd ed. (Steenbrug, 1995)
CSCO  Corpus scriptorum christianorum orientalium
DACL  Dictionnaire d’archéologie chrétienne et de liturgie
DSp  Dictionnaire de spiritualité ascétique et mystique
ET  English translation
FT  French translation
GCS  Die griechischen christlichen Schriftsteller der ersten [drei] Jahrhunderte
GNO  Hermann Langerbeck, ed., Gregorii Nysseni opera (Leiden, 1960)
KG  Kephalaia gnostika (Evagrius)
LXX  Septuagint
MGMT  Mor Garbiel Monastery (manuscript collection)
vi  Abbreviations

NPNF  Nicene and Post-Nicene Fathers series

PO  Patrologia orientalis

RB  Realelexikon der Byzantinistik, ed. P. Wirth (Amsterdam, 1968–)

SC  Sources chrétiennes

SubsHag  Subsidia hagiographica
ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The editors of this volume wish to thank the institutions and scholars who kindly made possible the meetings in which these essays were first discussed—the Dumbarton Oaks Research Library and Collection and the University of Notre Dame. At Dumbarton Oaks, Director Jan Ziolkowski and then—Director of Byzantine Studies Alice-Mary Talbot generously agreed to cosponsor a two-year, cooperative workshop on Evagrius and his legacy; when Margaret Mullett arrived as Byzantine director, she graciously and enthusiastically accepted the project.

At the University of Notre Dame, Charles Barbour offered funding from the fledgling Byzantine Studies program, Kenneth Garcia of the Institute for Scholarship in the Liberal Arts helped secure additional support, and the staff of the Department of Theology generously assisted with the workshop. Dumbarton Oaks has long had an interest in the religious literature and monastic institutions of Byzantium, as its publications attest—for instance, the five-volume Byzantine Monastic Foundation Documents, its translations of Byzantine Saints’ Lives, or its Hagiography Database. Notre Dame’s Anastos Collection—now housed in the Stavros Niarchos Foundation Reading Room—and growing program in Byzantine studies prompted a cooperative effort, and this volume is one result. Yet an examination of the work and the legacy of Evagrius was a new project for both institutions. Thus the editors and authors offer this volume as an invitation to further explorations into the fascinating thought of Evagrius and his intellectual heirs.

We wish also to thank the participants in the 2012 Roundtable held at Dumbarton Oaks, who helped think through the presentations, along with the respondents to the various sessions there: Elizabeth A. Clark of Duke University, Philip Rousseau and Sidney Griffith of the
Acknowledgments

Catholic University of America, Susan Ashbrook Harvey of Brown University, and Margaret Mullett. We appreciate the observations of the volume’s anonymous reviewers and are grateful to the staff of the University of Notre Dame Press for their work in editing and publishing the book. Finally, we wish especially to recall the kind assistance of the late Remie Constable, former director of the Medieval Institute at Notre Dame. Dumbarton Oaks had been a home in her youth, and she was happy to aid the cooperation between the two institutions. Her memory is dear to her friends and colleagues.